

The Echele Family
Rob, Barb,
Johnny and Grace

Barb attended Catholic school in a little two-room country schoolhouse – the same one her Dad did – in a very tight-knit community parish. I on the other hand received a very good public school education. But I missed out on the personal enhancement a religious-based education can provide.

We knew Brentwood was where we wanted to physically live. And after being a part of the parish and taking a parents' tour of the school, we knew Saint Mary Magdalen was where we wanted our children to spiritually and academically live.

Saint Mary Magdalen School has the small community atmosphere we love. It has a student population that is diverse by race and economic status, and at the same time feels like one big family. It's a place where parents are considered "good folk." We chose Saint Mary Magdalen. And we chose right.
